Common Broadleaf Weeds

Fred Kelly
USDA-NRCS Somerset, NJ
Q: What is a weed?

A: Any plant growing where you don’t want it to.

- Kentucky bluegrass is a weed in your flower bed
- Tall fescue is a weed on a golf course green approach
- Clovers are weeds in your lawn
Broadleaved plantain

Perennial, reproduces by seed
Buckhorn plantain

Perennial, reproduces by seed
Canada thistle

Perennial, reproduces by seed and underground rootstocks
Ground ivy

Perennial, reproduces by stolons and seed
Common milkweed

Perennial, reproduces by seed
Red clover

White clover

Short lived perennials, reproduce by stolons and seeds
Field bindweed

Perennial vine, reproduces by rootstocks and seed
Pokeweed

Perennial, reproduces by seed
Poison ivy

Perennial vine, reproduces by rhizome and seed
Curly dock

Perennial, reproduces by seed
Prostrate knotweed

Perennial, reproduces by seed
Virginia creeper

Perennial woody vine, reproduces by seed and spreading vine
Horsenettle

Perennial, reproduces by seed and rootstocks
Yellow nutsedge

Perennial, reproduces by Rhizomes/tubers
Common burdock

Biennial, reproduces by seed
Wild carrot

Biennial, reproduces by seed
Common ragweed

Annual, reproduces by seed
Common lambsquarters

Annual, reproduces by seed
Pennsylvania smartweed

Annual, reproduces by seed
Common chickweed

Annual, reproduces by seed
Henbit

Annual, reproduces by seed
Yellow rocket

Annual, reproduces by seed
Purslane

Annual, reproduces by seed and stem fragments
Velvetleaf

Annual, reproduces by seed
Jimsonweed

Annual, reproduces by seed
Redroot pigweed

Annual, reproduces by seed